What is going on in Christian Crisis Pregnancy Counselling?

We hear of very many expectant mothers seeking abortion advice, including numerous girls under sixteen.

Dr Ted Williams, a medical doctor of long experience, and a noted specialist in the public health field, shows that Christian counselling centres have adopted a deeply compromised approach which provides non-judgemental advice that leaves in place the option of abortion.

Expectant mothers, including so many girls, should always be helped in a spirit of great compassion, but they must be advised according to the Book of God, and its eternal values.

This book will not only inform and warn, but will focus the aims of pastors and all other Christians when they are called upon to extend help to expectant mothers thinking about abortion.

Dr E.S. Williams was Director of Public Health for Croydon Health Authority for many years. He is the author of Lessons in Depravity, and numerous research papers in medical journals.
